Canal Street FOR Dine

Brick Lane is a street in East London, England that is famous for serving authentic Indian curries. The Indians arrived at Brick Lane as sea men and soldiers between 1920-40 with their unique culinary culture and traditions to open the first Indian restaurants in Britain. Brick Lane Curry House in New York features cuisine inspired largely by it's namesake in England, with an eclectic fare of curries, kebabs and rolls from different parts of South Asia.

"A spicy Indian spot that does not care to fit in"
- Sam Sifton, The New York Times

"It's not your usual 6th Street Curry House. Not when the walls are colored with (would I lie?) real paprika, turmeric and coriander. Brick Lane Curry House will raise the ante for all the just-passable curry places on the block."
- Irene Sax, The Daily News

"...some of the dishes are simply the very best in desi (Indian) cuisine in New York."
- Arthur Pais, Indian in New York

Mr. M.T. Yu, our master chef, was the chief cook to Madame Chang-Kai - Shieh in Taiwan for over ten years. He insists on only the freshest produce available frequently changes the daily specials to ensure top quality. Mr. Yu personal all the daily deliveries of meats, fish, fowl and vegetables. Most importantly, he does not allow the commonly used monosodium glutamate (M.S.G.) to enter his kitchen due to the freshness of his preparation which makes the spice additive totally unnecessary.

The Story Of Burritoville

Deep in the blue region, where the shadows are of ancient animal shapes and the sky is a harmony of clay flutes and whistles, lies the mystical town of Burritoville.

Near the seacoast and beneath the jade mountains, the great reflection of sea, sky and sun creates a cosmic prism which renders any Burritoville inevitable. Only when the sun and the moon shine together in the same sky can Burritoville be seen.

On one of these rare days, a traveler from the distant land of Nueva York chanced to enter this town. The village children greeted him with joy. They brought him fresh tortillas and pure water from the Rain God.

The traveler was weary, so the youngest child led him to a comfortable dwelling where he slept and dreamt that a stock jaguar kept watch by the cubbyway. When he awoke, an old man known as Olince the Burritanian, sat next to him.

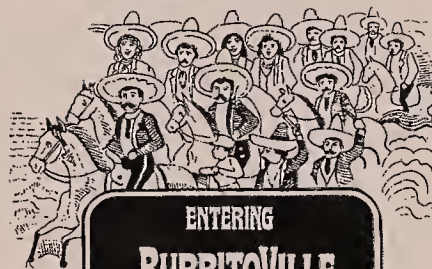

Olince told the traveler that the jaguar was the protector of Burritoville. Smiling, he gave the traveler a small pouch with some beans in it. Then, Olince said:

"Take these special beans back to your city. Wherever you plant them, there will grow a place with the spirit of Burritoville. A place where children are always welcome and tortillas are always fresh—a place where the burritos are delicious and the beans are
